This Privacy Notice informs you of important information about how Biolinq Incorporated (“Biolinq,” “we” or “our”) processes the personal data that we collect in online and offline formats. Biolinq is committed to protecting and safeguarding your information in compliance with all applicable privacy and data protection laws and regulations.

As an early-stage company that does not market or sell commercial products, Biolinq’s current business involves provision of medical technology and related services to participants in clinical studies or trials (the “Study” or “Studies”). Biolinq’s (the “Sponsor” of the Studies) policies setting forth steps we take to protect personal information or personal data related to our Studies are set forth in our Clinical Trial Agreements between Biolinq and our clinical study Institutions and Investigators, as well as in our Information and Consent Forms and Authorizations to Use and Disclose Protected Health Information, copies of which are executed by all individuals (“Subjects”) who consent to participate in clinical studies sponsored by Biolinq.

Clinical study participants:

If you consent to participate as a Subject in a Study involving our medical devices, we will take reasonable measures to protect the privacy and security of the personal information we collect, required by law and our agreement(s) with the Study center and/or the Sponsor to comply with their policies regarding privacy and security. Your informed consent to participate will include your authorization for the use and disclosure of the personal information that is included in your Study records, which may include protected health information that is subject to specific laws protecting the privacy and security of that information. Your Study records will include your medical records, your signed and dated informed consent form, and other information relating to your past, present, or future physical or mental health or condition, the provision of health care to you, or the past, present, or future payment for the provision of that health care. That information will be shared and copied as needed for the Study. For example, the United States Food and Drug Administration (“FDA”) may look at your Study records as a part of its review of the Study. Please note that the Sponsor or Study staff may also share personal information about you if required by law (for example, if the Study staff suspects that you are going to harm someone or yourself). If you have questions about this, please ask the Study staff.

If you would like to know how the Sponsor will protect the privacy of your records, ask the study staff how to get this information.

The Study staff or Sponsor may use some facts about your being in this study in books, magazines, journals, and scientific meetings. If this happens, no one will use your name or other information that could be used to identify you.

The Institutions, Investigators and their respective personnel who conduct our clinical studies may be subject to the requirements of 42 U.S.C. 1171 et seq. enacted by the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (“HIPAA”), as amended, and regulations promulgated thereunder, and/or other applicable state or federal law or regulations governing the use, disclosure, confidentiality, security, or privacy of “protected health information” or “PHI” (collectively, and with other laws that apply to the protection of health and other personal information, the “Privacy Regulations”). The Institutions, in connection with the performance of the Studies, may collect, create, receive, use, or disclose your PHI and provided that PHI to us. The Institutions conducting our Studies all have represented and warranted to us that they will act in compliance with the Privacy Regulations, including, but not limited to, either (1) obtaining valid authorizations meeting all of the requirements of the Privacy Regulations which authorize Institution to collect, create, receive, use, or disclose PHI, including without limitation disclosure to the Sponsor, and/or (2) obtaining from an institutional review board (“IRB”) or a similar body an informed and good faith determination that it is not required to obtain authorization under the Privacy Regulations for such collection, creation, receipt, use, or disclosure, including without limitation disclosure to the Sponsor.

An IRB is an independent committee established to help protect the rights of research subjects. If you are a Subject in one of our Studies and you have any questions about your rights as a research Subject, and/or concerns or complaints regarding our research Study, please contact the IRB identified on the informed consent document you signed to be a participant in the study.

We will not combine your PHI with other information we may collect about you, as is described below, and we will not sell or otherwise disclose your PHI except in compliance with the Privacy Regulations and our agreement(s) with the Study center and/or the Sponsor.

Cookie Notice

This document informs Users about the technologies that help this Website to achieve the purposes described below. Such technologies allow the Owner to access and store information (for example by using a Cookie) or use resources (for example by running a script) on a User's device as they interact with this Website.

For simplicity, all such technologies are defined as "Trackers" within this document – unless there is a reason to differentiate.

For example, while Cookies can be used on both web and mobile browsers, it would be inaccurate to talk about Cookies in the context of mobile apps as they are a browser-based Tracker. For this reason, within this document, the term Cookies is only used where it is specifically meant to indicate that particular type of Tracker.

Some of the purposes for which Trackers are used may also require the User's consent. Whenever consent is given, it can be freely withdrawn at any time following the instructions provided in this document.

This Website uses Trackers managed directly by the Owner (so-called “first-party” Trackers) and Trackers that enable services provided by a third-party (so-called “third-party” Trackers). Unless otherwise specified within this document, third-party providers may access the Trackers managed by them.

The validity and expiration periods of Cookies and other similar Trackers may vary depending on the lifetime set by the Owner or the relevant provider. Some of them expire upon termination of the User’s browsing session.

In addition to what’s specified in the descriptions within each of the categories below, Users may find more precise and updated information regarding lifetime specification as well as any other relevant information – such as the presence of other Trackers - in the linked privacy policies of the respective third-party providers or by contacting the Owner.

Activities strictly necessary for the operation of this Website and delivery of the Service

This Website uses so-called “technical” Cookies and other similar Trackers to carry out activities that are strictly necessary for the operation or delivery of the Service.

Other activities involving the use of Trackers

Experience enhancement

This Website uses Trackers to provide a personalized user experience by improving the quality of preference management options, and by enabling interaction with external networks and platforms.

- Displaying content from external platforms

Measurement

This Website uses Trackers to measure traffic and analyze User behavior with the goal of improving the Service.

- Analytics

How to manage preferences and provide or withdraw consent

There are various ways to manage Tracker related preferences and to provide and withdraw consent, where relevant:

Users can manage preferences related to Trackers from directly within their own device settings, for example, by preventing the use or storage of Trackers.

Additionally, whenever the use of Trackers is based on consent, Users can provide or withdraw such consent by setting their preferences within the cookie notice or by updating such preferences accordingly via the relevant consent-preferences widget, if available.

It is also possible, via relevant browser or device features, to delete previously stored Trackers, including those used to remember the User's initial consent.

Other Trackers in the browser's local memory may be cleared by deleting the browsing history.

With regard to any third-party Trackers, Users can manage their preferences and withdraw their consent via the related opt-out link (where provided), by using the means indicated in the third party's privacy policy, or by contacting the third party.

Locating Tracker Settings

Users can, for example, find information about how to manage Cookies in the most commonly used browsers at the following addresses:

- Google Chrome
- Mozilla Firefox
- Apple Safari
- Microsoft Internet Explorer
- Microsoft Edge

- Brave
- Opera

Users may also manage certain categories of Trackers used on mobile apps by opting out through relevant device settings, such as the device advertising settings for mobile devices, or tracking settings in general (Users may open the device settings, view and look for the relevant setting).

Advertising industry specific opt-outs

Notwithstanding the above, Users may follow the instructions provided by YourOnlineChoices (EU), the Network Advertising Initiative (US) and the Digital Advertising Alliance (US), DAAC (Canada), DDAI (Japan) or other similar services. Such initiatives allow Users to select their tracking preferences for most of the advertising tools. The Owner thus recommends that Users make use of these resources in addition to the information provided in this document.

The Digital Advertising Alliance offers an application called AppChoices that helps Users to control interest-based advertising on mobile apps.
